Festival Club

Project Bar at Project Arts Centre will be the relaxed site of DDF's Festival Club again in 2012. Always a hub of DDF activity, we're delighted to make ourselves even more at home there and encourage you to do the same. Pop into the lobby for a free coffee and wifi; after performances unwind and discuss the shows over a drink at the bar. It's the place for performers and audiences to get to know each other and share insights and opinions.

DDF Friends, Partners and Patrons can avail of special deals at the bar. Look out for offers!

Project Bar is located upstairs at Project Arts Centre, 39 East Essex Street, Dublin 2.

Please note: the Bar will be closed during performances in the Space Upstairs.

DDF Festival Club @ Project Bar is open from Friday May 11 to Saturday May 26.

Welcome

There's a particular sense of anticipation for this year's Festival, the first to be programmed by our new Director, Julia Carruthers.

On behalf of DDF's Board of Directors, I'd like to thank the many partners who make this Festival possible. Foremost among these are our funders, the Arts Council/ An Chomhairle Ealaíon, who have been committed to supporting the Festival from its inception as a bi-annual programme in 2002, to the annual event it has become. We are also sincerely grateful to Dublin City Council and Culture Ireland, and all of the embassies and cultural institutes

A message from Festival Director, Julia Carruthers

My first Festival and Dublin's 8th brings together a range of work that is sure to provoke new and different responses. There is revolution, comedy, intrigue, a choir, a coffin, slapstick, invisible objects, virtuoso performers and much more. Dance's customary international relations miracle gathers together artists from over 17 countries to show audiences in Dublin what's happening both at home and internationally.

There is no carefully engineered Festival theme this year, but we will share dance that can make you feel and imagine more intensely – this is whose collaboration enables DDF to showcase choreography from around the world.

Since her arrival in Dublin, Julia seems effortlessly to have taken up the baton as Director, and she and her team: Caroline Williams, Eleanor Creighton and Tiina Ylönen are a dynamic force. We hope that you, the audience, will be as excited as we are by the programme they have created.

Helen Meany
Chair

dance revealing what it is to be alive.

Heartfelt thanks to my industrious office team, the DDF Board, colleagues in partner venues and the wider dance community, and old acquaintances for sound advice, a fast track into things Dublin, good coffee and casseroles – and for keeping me sane (I think).

Julia Carruthers
Director

Post-show talk: Friday May 18

“Invariably sensuous, characterized by inventive wit and often uncommonly interesting... [Brown] keeps adding to the sum of human happiness.”

The New York Times

A legendary figure of American modern dance, Trisha Brown has pushed the boundaries of choreography to revolutionise dance.

For three nights only, audiences will have the unprecedented opportunity to see Brown’s work on the Abbey stage, featuring Set and Reset. In this iconic work dancers slip fluidly around each other in a rippling swell of motion. Since its creation in 1983, Set and Reset has become Brown’s signature work, influencing generations of dancers and choreographers. Laurie Anderson’s driving score and visual artist Robert Rauschenberg’s designs complete this modern masterpiece.

This evening of repertory also includes the short, witty ‘Early Works’ Accumulation and Spanish Dance, and the mysterious and emotive For M.G: The Movie. The recently created Les Yeux et l'âme, a suite of dances from Rameau’s opera Pygmalion, will complete this celebratory programme.

Post-show talk: Saturday May 12

The Festival opens with two atmospheric works that will move and inspire you.

Liz Roche is renowned for creating works that are both delicate and powerful. In Body and Forgetting, Roche explores themes of loss, separation, hope and control. A cast of remarkable dancers appear on film and on stage, as if creating different versions of themselves. They struggle to understand how and why they have forgotten.

The Wake features two soloists from The Royal Ballet sharing the stage with two traditional Irish musicians. The living and dead entwine in the twilight hours after a husband's death – but there is joy amid the sadness. Irish-born Sarah Dowling is an Associate Artist at the Royal Opera House and a core performer with Punchdrunk.

Ever watched a cloud turn into a sheep right before your eyes? Enter an enchanting, joyful world full of moving objects and dream-like imagery. Nubes (Clouds) takes a wildly imaginative approach to the theme of clouds, inspired by the surrealist artist Magritte. Audiences of all ages will delight in watching vibrant dances and inventive scenes involving flippers, ladders, puppets in suits, and all kinds of clouds.

Stylish Aracaladanza is one of Europe’s finest child-focused companies and tours worldwide.

“This dazzling and deeply moving tale tells us about love, war, emergency and fear.” Danser

Score is arresting and laced with an undercurrent of violence, yet still breathtakingly beautiful. Rooted in Yuval Pick’s experience of his native Israel, Score grew from recordings of sound bites of Israeli life. Striking lighting design highlights the sensual qualities of the dance amid speedy shifts in energy. Three exceptionally skilful young dancers capture the urgency and complexity of a country where borders, languages and cultures conflict and contradict.

NOTHING for body is presented as part of Aerowaves

These three young choreographers offer a fresh take on dance from around Europe and closer to home.

Black is a humorous piece about making things appear. Using only words and movements, Edvardsen conjures an entire domestic scene – pot plant, pet dog and all - on a bare stage.

Prompted Breathless weaves real-life memories of four dancers into an intimate and delicate web of movement. An extract of O’Donoghue’s recent work, it questions what makes us human.

In NOTHING for body, Baek’s body becomes the stage. Her hands, feet, fingers and toes are minutely expressive dancers.

Strobe lighting is used in Girls' Dreams

Dmitrijs Gaitjukevich reckons he knows what a woman wants in a man. Girls' Dreams is a hilarious sketch of muscle-men, magicians and knights in shining armour; with daring feats, a pair of very short shorts and a soundtrack to match. But there's a surprise at the end, when we glimpse into the magician's suitcase...

In I will try, Alexander Andriyashkin talks almost constantly with the audience. No such thing as sitting quietly in the dark here, he really wants to know what you think. He's up for the challenge. Are you?

Girls' Dreams is presented as part of E-Motional Bodies & Cities. I will try is presented as part of Aerowaves.

A new work from junk ensemble is something to anticipate eagerly. Performed by an all male cast and a live children's choir, The Falling Song looks at the nature of flying and falling and the dangerous relationship between the two. Male physicality is pushed to the extreme to explore self-destruction, invincibility and failure. So quickly wings can be replaced by crutches.

"There are few performers who can hold an audience captive like this double act... the timing of every note, shrug, laugh and gesture is awesome. Five stars."

The Guardian

These two works create irresistible theatre from the offbeat, creative world shared by Burrows and Fargion. Cheap Lecture, a rhythmic spoken performance set to music, is part rant, part philosophical comedy.

Using objects, text, movement and sound, The Cow Piece is a chaotic meditation on dance, music and mortality. Burrows and Fargion have toured to 28 countries over the past ten years and last performed in Dublin in 2004. Delightfully absurd, funny and wise, Cheap Lecture and The Cow Piece will change what you think dance can be.

Brokentalkers is part of Project Catalyst,

Following its success at Dublin Theatre Festival in 2011, The Blue Boy returns. Urgent and vital, it deals with the experiences of men and women who were incarcerated as children in Catholic residential care institutions. The Blue Boy combines startling choreography with live music, recorded interviews, multi-media, and film to reveal stories of childhood abuse in Ireland. This compelling work evokes hidden violence and gives intense physical expression to the anguish experienced by those who were silenced – it is essential watching for our times.

A collaboration between film-maker and theatre director Alan Gilsean and musician Martin Hayes, The Burning House is a haunting piece of visual theatre, reflecting upon the provocative life and imagination of the iconic revolutionary and artist Patrick Pearse. The remarkable musical talents of Iarla Ó Lionaird, Dennis Cahill, Caoimhín Ó Raghallaigh and Hayes himself will be brought together with an eclectic international company of performers, including Nigel Charnock and Koffi Koko. The Burning House begins at the still point where art and revolution meet.

The Burning House is planned for a major full production in 2016 to mark the centenary of the 1916 Rising.

Re-Representing Ireland is a showcase initiative of Culture Ireland, Dance Ireland and Dublin Dance Festival.

Now in its fifth successful year, Re-Representing Ireland continues to provide a vital platform for Irish and Ireland-based choreographers and dance companies to introduce their work to international presenters and local audiences. It has become a key element of Dublin Dance Festival and Dance Ireland's support of the development of choreography in Ireland. The showcase creates fruitful opportunities for Irish artists to connect with the global dance community.

The seven artists/companies showcased this year represent the vibrancy of contemporary dance in Ireland. These performances sell out every year – so book early to avoid disappointment!

Participating choreographers & companies: Philip Connaughton, Irish Modern Dance Theatre, Iseli-Chiodi Dance Company, Aoife McAtamney, Maria Nilsson Waller, Catherine Young and 50% Male Experimental Theatre.

The 2012 Re-Representing Ireland programme has been curated by: Madeline Boughton (MB Arts International); Julia Carruthers (Dublin Dance Festival); Mona Considine (Backstage Theatre, Longford); Brendan Keaney (Greenwich Dance Agency, London); and Yvonne Whyte (PACT Zollverein, Essen).

Luca Silvestrini's Protein (In)Visible Dancing Finale

Grafton Street Sunday May 20

4pm — 30 minutes approx

FREE, no ticket required!

Come down to Grafton Street on Sunday May 20 to discover the vivid colours of our celebration of dance in Dublin city. Luca Silvestrini's distinctive company Protein is joined by a host of musicians and local dancers, young and not so young, who will sweep you away from your daily cares with a spectacular street show. You might even learn the moves and join in yourself...

Keep your eyes peeled in the lead up to May 20 - you might notice some unusual, but familiar, characters as you nip to the shops on your lunch break or on your way home from work. Everyday life is not always as it seems...

Dancing with Fire: technology, performance, objects and environments

Arts Technology Research Lab

Trinity College, Pearse Street
Wednesday May 23
10am-6pm

€15 / €10 Conc

Limited places, booking advised

The Arts Technology Research Lab and the Digital Arts and Humanities programme have come together with Dublin Dance Festival to explore the confluence of ideas generated by making performing arts in a digitally enabled world. Inspired by the power, creativity and community exemplified in projects which bring together artistic and technological invention, this symposium will provoke a conversation aimed at discovering where the performing arts can take us in a technologically connected, globally engaged culture.

Renowned media artist Klaus Obermaier, whose work Apparition will be presented at the Samuel Beckett Theatre (see page 20), will present the keynote address.

This event is open to all and is of particular relevance to those with an interest in making, researching, writing about or watching performances that bring together art and technology in novel collaborations.

The Digital Arts and Humanities structured PhD Programme is funded under the Programme for Research in Third-Level Institutions (PRTL) Cycle 5 and co-funded under the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF).

Dancing Futures Moves across Europe

DanceHouse

Thursday May 24

3pm-5.30pm approx

Free, booking required

This information session, chaired by Willie White, offers a chance to learn more about opportunities and funding available through European projects. New EU

Films by David Hinton, whose work for DV8 is now legendary and Philippe Decouflé, a major figure in French dance for camera, will be presented alongside shorts from far and near.

You'll also have a chance to be involved! We'll screen one of the twelve RTÉ Dance on the Box short films made since 2006, as chosen by audience vote. Check out DDF's Facebook and Twitter for more details about how to vote for your favourite!

Catch all twelve RTÉ Dance on the Box films on RTÉ Two during the Festival! See rte.ie and the RTÉ Guide for schedule.

programme Creative Europe will be introduced by Katie Lowry, Cultural Contact Point, Ireland at the Arts Council. John Ashford will discuss successful dance performance network Aerowaves, Dance Ireland will provide an update on Modul Dance, while Dublin Dance Festival will present the latest developments from E-Motional Bodies & Cities – all multi-party projects funded by the EU Cultural Programme.

Presentations will be followed by a panel discussion exploring the experiences of those who have been involved in European projects. There will be ample time for questions and informal networking and refreshments will be provided.

Master

Master Classes

In partnership with Dance Ireland, Dublin Dance Festival will present a series of master classes at Dance House. These can be booked in advance by phoning Dance Ireland on 01 855 8800 or emailing reception@danceireland.ie. Master classes are aimed at professional dancers and dance students, unless otherwise indicated. Each class costs €12 for DI members and €14 for non-members.

Tuesday May 15 10am-12noon

CCNR – Yuval Pick
Learn elements of Yuval Pick's highly physical dance style, informed by his training at the Bat-Dor Dance School in Tel Aviv. He has been further influenced by his performing career with the likes of Batsheva Dance Company, Lyon Opéra Ballet, William Forsythe and Angelin Preljocaj. He founded his own company in 2001.

Wednesday May 16 10am-12noon

Trisha Brown Dance Company
With an emphasis on finding easeful and dynamic ways of moving, students will learn phrases of movement from Brown's iconic Set and Reset. This class offers an opportunity to work in depth on body alignment and fundamentals that are integral to exploring the detail and rigour of Brown's movement style.

Monday May 21 10am-12noon

Rob Tannion – Klaus Obermaier
This master class is for dancers, circus artists and actors interested in working with movement, text and different styles of dance. Founded on Rob Tannion's (co-artistic director Stan Won't Dance) creative process, participants will take artistic risks and use personal experiences and characteristics as tools in the search for authenticity.

Wednesday May 23 10am-12noon

Desirée Kongerød – Klaus Obermaier
Desirée Kongerød is a contemporary dancer who draws on great experience in other forms of movement to create stimulating and intuitive classes. Starting with the gentleness of yoga, Desirée weaves in contemporary dance and then focuses on some playful and challenging circus inversions.

Tuesday May 22 11am-1pm

Michelle Boulé - IMDT
Fumbally Court Studio, Fumbally Lane, Dublin 8 Tickets: €15
Dublin Dance Festival and Fumbally Court Studio, Dublin's newest independent dance space, will present a workshop with renowned New York dancer and BodyTalk practitioner Michelle Boulé. She performs regularly with Miguel Gutierrez and is a faculty member of The New School, New York. This workshop is aimed at those with prior dance training.

MA Contemporary Dance Performance

Irish World Academy of Music and Dance, University of Limerick, Ireland

The MA Contemporary Dance Performance is a one-year, full-time, post-graduate programme that offers students an opportunity to undertake intensive studio-based research into contemporary dance, performance and choreography. Throughout the year students work on a range of performance projects (ensemble and solo), under the direction of number of choreographers and tutors. They are also offered advanced tuition in dance technique in the form of daily classes and intensive workshops. In addition students have an opportunity to interact with other MA programmes at the academy, including the MAs in Irish Traditional Dance, Chant and Ritual Song, Classical String Performance and Irish Traditional Music Performance.

Tutors on the MA Contemporary Dance programme include core faculty and guest artists and scholars. In addition, each year the Academy runs a series of public performances and seminars and hosts a number of artists-in-residence.
